SOYA PROCESSING TRAINING: EMPOWERING STUDENTS OF SHGC FOR SUSTAINABLE LIVING AND COMMUNITY COLLABORATION

Students of Sant Hirdaram Girls College, B.Sc. Second year recently engaged in an insightful training session on soya processing and the creation of various soya products. The training, held at the Agri-nutrition Resource Center, Solidaridad, Bhopal, empowered the 38 participating students. Under the guidance of Prof. Vibha Khare, Head, Department of Food and Nutrition, they acquired practical skills in making soya milk, tofu, and soya nuts using simple home equipment. Notably, the training emphasized the utilization of byproducts to encourage sustainable living practices.

Solidaridad Regional Expertise Centre, Koh-e-fiza, is making commendable strides by collaborating with small farmers, workers, local authorities, private sectors, and research institutes. Functioning as a catalyst for improved food production, safer workplaces, access to clean water, and better income, the center is currently operational in 4 districts and has plans for expansion. During the training, students had the opportunity to explore potential job prospects at the center.

This initiative not only equips students with practical skills but also fosters a commitment to sustainable practices and community collaboration.
