NSS Unit Conducts Joy of Giving and Voter Awareness Initiatives for Community Welfare and Civic Awareness

The NSS Cell of Sant Hirdaram Girls College, Bhopal organized two significant community outreach activities on 30 January 2026, reflecting its commitment to social service and civic responsibility. Under the initiative titled “Joy of Giving,” NSS volunteer students collected and distributed woollen clothes to the needy in the areas of Shantinagar, Singar Choli, and Railway Crossing, Bhopal. The activity aimed to provide warmth and comfort to underprivileged families during the winter season. The volunteers personally interacted with the beneficiaries and distributed the collected clothes, which brought smiles to their faces and a sense of satisfaction among the students. The programme helped inculcate values of compassion, empathy, and social responsibility among the volunteers.

On the same day, the NSS Cell also conducted a Voter Awareness Programme to educate citizens about the importance of voting in a democratic country. NSS volunteers reached out to local residents and encouraged them to exercise their voting rights responsibly by making informed and thoughtful choices. The programme emphasized the significance of active citizen participation in strengthening democracy and promoting democratic values. Both activities highlighted the dedication of the NSS Cell towards community development and nation-building while contributing to the overall personality development of the student volunteers.

SHGC Hosts Valedictory Ceremony of Field Project on Core Python Programming

Saturday, 21st January, 2026

The Department of Computer Science at Sant Hirdaram Girls College, Bhopal, successfully conducted the Valedictory Ceremony of its Field Project on Core Python Programming for BCA and B.Sc. First Year students, marking the culmination of an intensive, industry-oriented training initiative from 24.11.2025 to 24.01.2026.

The program was conceptualized to cultivate technical proficiency and practical insight into contemporary programming environments. The structured curriculum covered Python fundamentals, Object-Oriented Programming, GUI development using the Tkinter library, application development through VS Code, IOT and foundational exposure to Arduino integration. The initiative was aimed at strengthening students' computational thinking while bridging the academic–industry interface.

The training sessions were led by Mr. Bhupendra Khilrani, Founder, Technology Developer, whose expertise and mentorship provided students with hands-on exposure to real-world coding environments and development frameworks. Under his guidance, participants engaged in applied learning modules, project-based tasks, and collaborative problem-solving exercises.

The valedictory ceremony celebrated the dedication and performance of the participants, acknowledging their successful completion of the program. Certificates, Plants saplings and chocolates as a token of appreciation were awarded to all participating students. Faculty members commended the initiative for enhancing technical literacy, analytical thinking, and professional preparedness among first-year students at an early stage of their academic journey.

Principal, Dr. Dalima Parwani in her address during the valedictory ceremony, lauded the Department of Computer Science for organizing a forward-looking and skill-oriented initiative at such an early stage of the students' academic journey. Appreciating the efforts of the trainer and faculty members, she remarked that such experiential platforms are instrumental in shaping industry-ready professionals and encouraging young women to actively participate in the evolving digital ecosystem.

SHGC Celebrates National Science Day 2026 with Enthusiasm and Innovation

Saturday, 28th January, 2026

Sant Hirdaram Girls College celebrated National Science Day 2026 with great zeal and academic fervor under the inspiring theme Women in Science: Catalysing Viksit Bharat. The event was organized by the Faculty of Science in collaboration with the Institution's Innovation Council and the Nature Club, aiming to foster scientific temperament and creative expression among students.

To commemorate the occasion and highlight the pivotal role of women in shaping India's scientific and technological progress, the college conducted Digital Poster Making Competition, Reel Making Competition along with speeches presented by the students and ending the day with a Movie screening of Dr. C V Raman.

The competitions witnessed enthusiastic participation from students across various streams, who showcased their creativity, innovation, and awareness of contemporary scientific advancements. Through compelling digital posters and engaging reels, participants explored the transformative contributions of women scientists and envisioned their role in building a Viksit Bharat. The first award for reel making was honoured to Ms. Riya Acharya and Ms. Tanisha Makwankar, the second prize was secured by Ms. Insha Waseem. Similarly, Ms. Farzana Khan was lauded with first prize for Poster making and the second prize was bagged by Ms. Deepika Mewada.

Addressing the gathering, Principal Dr. Dalima Parwani congratulated the students for their active involvement and commendable efforts. She emphasized that science plays a crucial role in today's fast-paced world and highlighted the importance of acknowledging scientific developments and nurturing innovation among young minds. She further encouraged students, especially young women, to pursue scientific inquiry with confidence and determination, contributing meaningfully to national development. The event successfully created a platform for students to merge scientific awareness with creative expression, reinforcing the institution's commitment to academic excellence and holistic development. The celebration concluded with appreciation for all participants and organizers who made the event a grand success.
